If the Board requires the assistance of a legal draughteman in preparing its by-laws a lawyer who is not a member of the Board ought to be engaged for the work, some one which serves as frame for a very large amount who will carry out his instructions without regard to his own private views. Of Mr. he has imposed upon himself in this matter of the by-laws there can be no doubt, but what the learned gentleman's constituents are concerned to know is his mutured judgment on the points involved; the technical form in which he would cast a law of which he disapproves is a matter of indifference. Mr. PARNELL might possibly be able to draft very efficiently a Coercion Act, but his doing so would be considered by all parties to be rather out of place. If Mr. FRANCIS does not approve of his by-laws it is a pity he ever brought them forward. On Mr. Francis as a lawyer they may be taken as reflecting credit for the skill with which they are drawn; on Mr. FRANCIS as a member of the Sanitary Board they can reflect

IN A MANILA PRISON. The San Francisco, Chronicle of the 15th A gust has the following: The British ship W.

Pirrie arrived in port last Saturday, seventy-nine days from Manila. Captain Luther reported all well on the trip save thitle trouble at Manlia. Lily Minstrels belonging to the 58th Region where three of the mon deserted. He gave no particulars and there was no indication of any further trouble until the crew came schore on Monday and went to the office of the British Consul to be paid. The men were offered their wages at the rate of £4 a month. They refused to accept the money, claiming that when they signed articles for the round trip they understood that they were to receive $20 a month. They went bank yesterday afternoon, however, and the Briish Consulinformed them that they were in the wrong and had signed for £4 and an appeal to the law would be in vain. After much disoussion the men decided to account the English money Captain Luther was present most of the time while the men were in the office. The sailors

We arrived there in the latter part of April, and our tronbles began one day when four of the hands were over the side in a punt, cleaning the vessel. In the spirit of a lark, one of the men suggested that they take the boat to town, and get a drink. They left early in the afternoon, and that night about 8 c'clock two of them returned with the boat the others remaining on shore. The two in the boat had brought some cigars and whisky back with them. but the mate received them at the side, and threw the liquor and cigars overboard. The other two men were brought back turing him. The swimmer, however, who, when to the ship is the morning by the Manila nolice. sailor, named Lovegreen, succeeded in getting some whisky from men who were engaged on a lighter alongside, into which we were dischargthat he had been kidnapped. Investigations made ling flour. He drank too much and became so drunk that he was unfit for duty. "After breakfast the captain and his mate. Matthews went forward to see if any of the men were sick. They found Lovegreen drunk, and hauled him out on deck, and there a man named Robinson, who was steredoring the cargo. On Thursday night a large growd of Chinese jumped to the captain's ass stance. NEW & ORIGINAL SERIAL STORY TROM: THE PEN OF HAGGARD, RIDER Author of "King Solomon's Mines." "Allan Quartermain," "She," "Jess," &c., &c.

The Proprietors of this Journal are pleased to announce that they have, at a very considerable ontlay, made arrangements with H. RIDER HAGGARD-the Author of the most popular and dramatic Stories of our day-by which their Readers will enjoy precedent perusal of a new and unpublished manuscript Story from his pen. The Title of RIDER HAGGARD'S

New Story is COLONEL QUARITOH, V.C. And the Opening Chapters appeared in THE "HONGKONG DAILY PRESS " OF SATURDAY, 21st JULY. -In this dramatic work, the author of "She" makes a new departure. Instead of placing his characters in lands remote from civilization and subjecting them to influences of the most remarkable and unprecedented nature, he has here written an English treasure story of the present Friday, on account of coaling. day. The hero is a soldier in the British army, a wearer of the Victoria Cross, who returns home to except under unavoidable circumstances. In from the recent operations in the Soudan, to case-of stress of weather, due notice will be exchange the perils and privations of warfare in given of any stoppages. the desert for a series of sensational incidents ultimate reward of an ancestral home brightened OT RESPONSIBLE FOR DEBTS. among pleasant English landscapes, and the by the beauty of a comely bride. The plot is well contrived, there is strong individualisation in the characters; the scenes are depicted with clearness and a warm glow of local colour, while the main incidents are worked out with power. Not even in "King Solomon's Mines," when entrance is effected into the mysterious chamber, Cronno, Brit. str., George.-Chinese. is the thrill greater than when Colonel Quaritoh COMET, Ger. ship, Krippner.—Order. unearths the treasure, hidden away from Cromancient house from ruin.

CHAPTER XIX.

"It is stifling in here," she said. "let us go out." and she rose, took up a shawl that lay beside ber on a chair, and stepped through the French window into the garden. It was a lovely antume night and the air was still as death, with just a touch of frost in it. Ida threw the shawl over her shoulders and followed by Harold, walked on through the garden, till she came to the edge of the most, where there was a seat. Here she sat down and fixed her eyes upon the hoary battlements of the gateway, new clad in a solemn robe of moonlight. Harold looked at her and felt that if he had anything to say the time had come for him to say it, and that she had brought him here in order that she might be able to listen undisturbed. So he began again, and told her that years older than you." he went on "and I suppose that the most active part of my life lies in the past; and I don't know if, putting other

So you see I did what unfortunate women have often been driven to do. I sold myself body and soul; and I got a good price too-thirty thousand pounds! and suddenly she burst into a flood of tears and began to sob as though her heart would break. For a moment Harold Quaritoh looked on bewildered, not in the least understanding what Ida meant, and then he followed the impulse Common to mankind in similar circumstances and took her in his arms. She did not resent the movement, indeed she scarcely seemed to notice it, though to tell the truth for a moment or two, which to the Colonel seemed the happiest of his life, her head rested on his shoulder. Almost instantly, however, she raised it, freed herself from his embrace, and ceased weeping.
